

Dear Roseville Joint Union High School Parent:

RJUHSD TechByte #2: In an effort to support students' safety, security, and success with using technology, Roseville Joint Union High School District in collaboration with Hanover Research has developed a series of informative emails for parents. This email is the second of three on digital learning. If you missed the first techbyte, you can find it here.

While most adolescents are digital natives familiar with technology and the internet, they require practice and skills to successfully and safely access and use digital media, which is a critical aspect of 21st-century learning and life. This email includes strategies for supporting student digital safety and security and offers tools and resources designed to encourage conversations with your adolescents at home. Click on the blue titles or the icons to access resources.
